MATERIA MEDICA

ABIES GANADENSIS

The most characteristic symptoms seem to be

Gastric—Craving for meat, pickles and other coarse food; a gnawing, hungry, faint feeling at the epigastrium.

ABIES NIGRA

The genius of this remedy appears prominently in the stomach.

Mental—Low-spirited; melancholy.

Gastric—Total loss of appetite in the morning, but great craving for food at noon and night. Sensation of an undigested hard-boiled egg, or some such uncomfortable substance, in the stomach. Continual distressing constriction just above the pit of the stomach, as if everything were knotted up, or as if a hard lump of undigested food remained there. A painful sensation as if something were lodged in the chest, mostly on the right side of the sternum, which had to be coughed up, though nothing comes, after taking food that disagreed. Pain in the stomach always comes after eating.

ABROTANUM

This remedy is displayed most prominently in the chylopoietic viscera. It is found peculiarly adapted to children with marasmus, worms, etc., though adults require its use often.

Mental—The child is cross and depressed—marasmus or worms.

Face—Face wrinkled, old, pale. Blue rings around dull looking eyes. Comedones with emaciation.

Gastric—Appetite very great, though emaciation progresses. Sensation as if the stomach were hanging or swimming in water, with a peculiar feeling of coldness. Cutting pains in stomach, gnawing, burning, sometimes contracting and stinging, mostly worse at night.

Little Boys—Epistaxis. Hydrocele. Emaciation.

Generalities—Blood and moisture oozing from the navel of newborn children. A peculiar symptom is marasmus of lower extremities only. Great weakness and prostration after influenza. Itching chilblains. Gout, wrists and ankle-joints. Inflammatory rheumatism before swelling begins. Darting or twitching in either or both ovaries.

ABSINTHIUM

Head—Stupor. Headache. Vertigo; dizzy when rising. Wants head low.

Urine—Constant desire; strong horse odor.

Convulsions—Epileptiform, preceded by trembling; unconscious, falls, bites tongue, foams, etc.

Is said to cure poisoning by mushrooms.

Similar to Alcohol, Bellad., Chamom., Hysoc., Stramon.

The effects of Absinth are much worse than of Alcohol, Opium, or Tobacco (C. Hering).

ACALYPHA INDICA

Often called for in haemorrhage of the lungs.

Chest—Constant pain. Dulness on percussion. Cough, with blood expectoration. Hemoptysis. Emaciation.

ACETIC ACID

We are always to think of this remedy when we find a patient passing large quantities of pale urine, particularly if accompanied by intense thirst, and dry, hot skin.

Face—Pale, waxen, emaciated. Staring, wild look of the eyes and countenance.

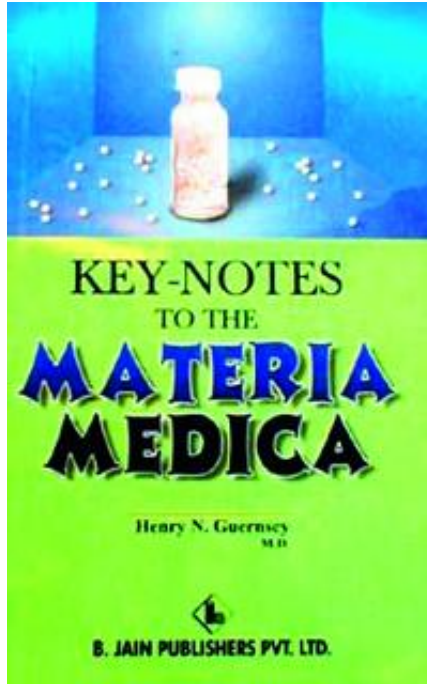

Throat—False membranes in the throat.

Gastric—Vomits after every kind of food. Much burning and uncomfortable feeling in the stomach; complains of the stomach a great deal.

Skin—Burning, dry skin is always characteristic of this remedy. Also profuse sweating.

Dropsy—With intense thirst, debility, pale waxen skin, and often passing large quantities of urine. (Edema of the lower extremities.)

Stool—Diarrhoea, with great thirst, drinking large quantities will appear impunity. Bloated abdomen, great debility, stools often un-
