Preface

It gives me a great pleasure to present this small piece of work to the students who are gearing up for the MD Examination in the subject of Medicine. The First thing was to grasp the 'syllabus' then the 'marking scheme' and in the end 'the important topics'. This work is based on the personal notes, which were organized while preparing for MD examination. It all started as revision of medicine, the important topics were accumulated in the form of 'notes'. Which were put in a sequence to avoid the confusion at the last moment in a simplified manner to facilitate quick revision. It also gave a rare insight about the 'important topics', which were of much significance from the examination point of view.

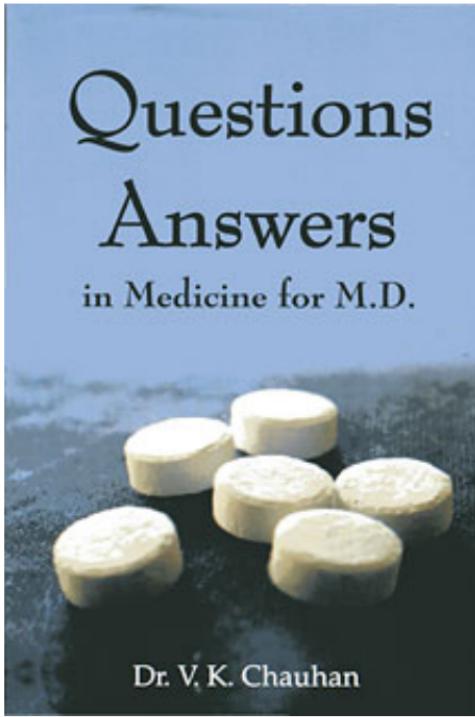

This small booklet is a birds eye view in the subject of medicine which contains a broad range of questions which are part of MD examination in different Universities.

I would like to remind that there is no substitute for depth of learning in the preparation for any examination. These question answers are no substitute for exhaustive study, but they provide a quick review of the subject especially for those who have constrain of time. If some of the MD aspirants find this work to be of some help to them, it will be a great moment of satisfaction for me.
