Chapter 4

Vaccines and Vaccinosis

Dr. Vijay S. Shah

In the earlier days, vaccines were given to raise the so-called immunity of the child against various diseases. But unfortunately today the main purpose of raising the immunity has been side tracked and more emphasis is being laid on marketing gimmicks. Thus the emergence, of newer vaccines to the ones already present.

Now a days campaign is going on all around the world about mandatory and optional vaccinations. 21 to 24 different primary and booster doses are given to vaccinate a newborn, in the first year of life. Immune status of an infant is nearly unknown. Such large numbers of vaccines are found to be responsible for totally new class of diseases in children of present era of post-vaccination. They suffer from large number of diseases, which were so far not encountered by generations previous to them (mainly before 1950). This clearly indicates causal relationship. It has been proved that vaccination increases immunity against particular disease only temporarily. But this happens at the cost of general immunity, which decreases after vaccination, thus making infants and children prone to various diseases. In other words rather than providing immunity (short-term), it creates large varieties of diseases in early childhood. Of late even the pediatricians have realized that they have been encountering numerous diseases in children, which were not observed few decades ago. Contents of these vaccines: -

All vaccines are scheduled 4 poisons (FDA, USA).

Majority of vaccines are made from live attenuated organism, toxins of the organism or dead organism and recently, genetically derived. But most of us are totally unaware of the vehicle or preservative medium being used for making of vaccines. They are part of the vaccines. Some of these chemicals are mercury, aluminum hydroxide, formaldehyde, borax and some times antibiotics and foreign cells. These added contents are equally potent agents of vaccinosis.

How these vaccines act?

These vaccines act as antigens to which the body's immune system responds by producing antibodies, thus preparing the body for the next stimulus. Major antibodies in the body are in the form of immunoglobulins IgG, IgA, IgM, IgE, IgD. These are proportionately balanced in the body. They are approximately placed like this: IgG-77%, IgA-17%, IgM 3 %, and remaining 3% are IgD and IgE, etc.

Immunoglobulin IgG gives the general and long term immunity, and IgM is transient and short lasting immunoglobulin.

Immunoglobulin IgA gives immunity at the level of skin (ectoderm), mucus lining of respiratory, digestive and urinary tracts (endoderm). When a vaccine is given by injections, it bypasses this natural protective barrier and directly goes in the blood giving the body no warning, no generalized inflammatory response, no chance to recognize, duplicate or defend itself against future challenges from typical antigens. It is very likely that other major immunoglobulins IgG and IgM have to take up the job of IgA. This is how IgM and IgG rises. This leads to the suppression of IgA. As a result, now a days, we get a very large number of cases pertaining to the two layers - ectoderm and endoderm, protected by IgA. Few examples are tinea, nappy rash, molluscum contagiosa, warts, infantile eczema, allergic dermatitis and so on at the ectodermal level, and secondly, chronic allergic rhinitis, bronchitis, asthma, nasal polyp, recurrent diarrhoeas, U.T.I., renal stones, flatulent colic, etc at endodermal level are also prevalent.

Various researches have been done and documentation also recorded as regards the adverse effects of vaccination. Studies show that abnormal RNA was found in the blood of 50 % of sick Gulf - War veterans of U.S.A. and none in the same age and sex as the healthy non-military controls. This abnormal RNA was also prevalent in vaccine injured children. The presence of abnormal RNA in blood indicates chromosomal damage has occurred. The RNA found in the sick Gulf War veterans contained genetic material that occurs only in regions of chromosome no. 22q11.2-susceptible to genetic rearrangements and mutation. Damage to chromosome 22q11.2 has been linked to autoimmune diseases such as juvenile diabetes, R.A., thrombocytopenic purpura and multiple myeloma.

This study shows that how genetic change or abnormalities take place. And finally, it leads to so-called autoimmune and neurological disorders. The list is endless, but to list a few are R.A., S.L.E., Multiple Sclerosis, Optic neuritis, Guillian Barre Syndrome, paralysis, etc.

Allergies and autoimmune disease can develop when the body tries to attack what is foreign to itself i.e. foreign proteins. Yet, vaccine manufacturing companies and government say that vaccines are safe for young babies. Can they tolerate endless number of pricks with the stuff as described above? No long term sufficient studies into the effect on the immune system of all such foreign proteins and poisons are done.

Thus the ill effects of vaccinations are coming out into the open, the latest of them being that of Hep-B vaccine.

"As well consult a butcher on the value of vegetarianism as a doctor on the worth of vaccination."—Bernard Shaw.

We see that much hype has been created by the pharma companies regarding Hepatitis B vaccine (and many more to follow in future). It is portrayed to the common man as a disease deadlier than AIDS. According to them, Hep.B spreads not only through infected blood; but also by tears, saliva, semen, and vaginal fluid, sweat and other discharges. But it is not so. WHO clearly states that it spreads only through infected blood and not by other body fluids unless contaminated with the infected blood. The high risk group includes people with multiple sex partners especially homosexuals; hospital staff handling blood and blood products, syringes, needles, etc.; babies born to infected mothers; people requiring repeated transfusions, IV drug abusers, etc.

But the marketing companies advocate it for newborn infants, school going children and housewives who do not fall under the high-risk group. Another fact to be noted here is that the mechanism as well as the duration of protective action of the vaccine is not known. France is the first country to suspend this vaccine due to its adverse effects becoming obvious.

Homoeopathic Solution To The Vaccinosis:

The world is becoming increasingly aware of the homoeopathic solution to this vaccinosis. Since Homoeopathic medicines act at the genetic level, Homoeopathy is the only solution. We have a large group of medicines to tackle with A/F vaccination (vaccinosis). We all are treating, and in the coming years, will be receiving more grave varieties of autoimmune, neurological and allergic disorders.

We, at Predictive Homoeopathy, have been stressing on genetic constitutional similimum, since the time of inception.

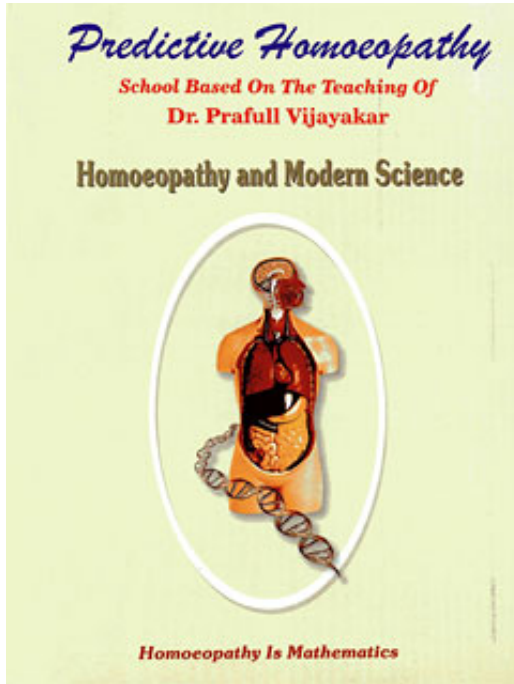

Man is made up of cells. This cell expresses itself through genetic code. When we have the approach to treat the man as a whole and not the disease, we have to take into consideration the expression of genetic code. They are emotions, intellect, nature, attitude, tolerance to external environment, physical generals like - aversions and desires, thirst, thermals, etc. This wholistic approach is required to treat deep to very deep-seated diseases generated by vaccinosis.

Please keep in mind the result has to follow the direction of Hering's Law of Cure and fundamentals of homoeopathy. And then the wonders will follow.

Summary : -

1) suppression of IgA.

2) Mutated RNA leads to so called incurable autoimmune diseases.
