PREFACE

In my earlier years of practice the greatest difficulty I used to face was in handling the pediatric cases. It was due to my lack of experience and proper guidance during my clinical training. This gave me an idea of compiling my experience of 12 years in the form of this book with the hope that it will be useful to the students and beginners of Homoeopathy. In this book I have tried to explain the disease in a very precise form with the medicines that I use commonly and illustrating certain cases of the same for your better understanding.

In chronic cases of children we have a very poor symptomatology, especially of the mind. We need to gather the information from the parents or relatives. But what I have learned is that the state of mother during pregnancy is a major influencing factor for a child's state of mind. I have tried to explain the same elaborately in this book.

It is a common belief that in acute cases, Homoeopathy fails to give faster results but then when the right medicine is given in the right way it is sure to give quick results.

I am presenting this book to all the students and the beginners of Homoeopathy so that they do not face the same difficulties I faced.
